The mummy returns scorpion king cast

Mummy: The Tomb of the Dragon Emperor Mummy returns - it's a 2001 adventure film produced by Universal Pictures, and the studio's second installment reworks the mummy trilogy. Starring actors Brendan Fraser, Rachel Weisz, Arnold Waxlo, John Hannah and Odd Fer, and introducing Freddie Boate, with Dwayne The Rock Johnson and Adevale Akinnuoye-Agbaye in new roles. Synopsis Campaign of King Scorpio In 3067 B.C, King Of Scorpio, a terrible warrior who fled to conquer ancient Egypt, marches to the city of Bebes, which intends to rule. After a brutal march between King Scorpion's army and the Faw Army, which has been going on for seven years, the battle goes to the Faw army, who driven the invaders into the Ahma Sher Desert. King Scorpio soon finds himself the last living member of his army, all others killed by desert heat, exhaustion and lack of food or water. At that point, The King of Scorpio himself dies, and in the final moments prays to the god Anubis, pleading for a chance to win one last fight in exchange for his soul. In response, God sends a great black scorpion from the sands, which is stirring the warrior, despite his successful attempts to sting it, leading to a large oasis sprouting from the desert. The Scorpio King, with his fallen soldiers, replaced the Anubis army itself, returns to Tedes and continues his siege, conquering the city and killing many. Once the battle is over, however, King Scorpio's soul is taken into the underworld, as is the Anubis army. King is branded Anubis and will awaken in 5,000 years. Waking up, anyone who kills King Scorpio can either send his army back to the Underworld or use it to enslave humanity and take over the earth. His bracelet remained on the sands and is now a guide to hosting him and the Anubis army. Finding a bracelet 5,000 years later, in 1933 ours, Rick O'Connell long married Evelyn Carnahan and raw son, 8-year-old Alex O'Connell. O'Connell reached the temple along the banks of the Nile, where Evelyn looks for an Anubis bracelet, the emblem of King Scorpio. Evelyn is aware of the temple and how to access the Bracelet from the visions she has. When Evelyn looks at some of the carvings on the wall, Rick tells her son Alex that the tattoo on his wrist is like a symbol that appeared in the temple atrium they are studying. Later, three thieves, Spivey, Red and Jacques, arrive to retrieve the bracelet. While Red goes after Rick and Evelyn, Spivey and Jacques are left behind to look for other artifacts. Meanwhile, Rick and Evelyn find and fall into the camera where the bracelet is stored. Back at the main camera, Alex secretly intimidates Spivey from above with a wooden platform, but later found out Jacques walking him to kill. As Evelyn tries to open a box containing the bracelet, Rick finds the key and they open it Discover an Anubis bracelet while Red reads his gun to fire. Breasts containing the bracelet were taken from the resting place, but at that point it sounds a violent sound; then O'Connell realizes that Bracelet was under protection because the inscriptions around his chest said that whoever opens his chest would drink from the Nile. At the same time, a large stream of water descends the corridors, taking Rick and Evelyn with them, nearly drowning them as they take their breaths with them. At the atrium, Alex is cornered by Jacques and Spivey as well; Red rushes in to tell everyone they need to escape and they decide to escape as the temple crumbles, but before leaving Jacques kicking down the stairs, he climbs down to prevent Alex from fleeing. Rick and Evelyn get into floodwaters and barely cling to life. During the escape attempt, Alexei mistakenly causes the supporting pillars to crash within the main atrium, breaking through walls and stopping the waters from drowning his parents. Imhotep discovered the scene and then turns into an excavated Hamunaptra. Excavators are paid by cult presenter Baltus Hafeez, curator of the British Museum. In the tent, a warrior named Lok-ni claims that the discovered Book of the Dead gives life. A woman named Mela Nuy, who happened to be reincarnation of Ank-Su-Namun, claims that the Book of Amuna-Ra takes lives. That's when excavators unearth a swarm of scarabs devouring some excavators and a couple of cultists. Then the cultists force the scarabs to return to the pit using flamethrowers. That's when the cat sounds, and Hafeez exclaims: We found him. Most excavators and cultivators rush to the site as the lowered corpse is covered in mineral, discovered as the remains of Imhotep. Mela watches with reverence discovering her former lover, while Locke doesn't reveal an urn containing Imhotep's mummified soldiers. Red and his friends who arrived, revealing the cult wanted them to get a bracelet for them, push their way through the crowds of diggers, Red threatening to shoot one digger across the face if he didn't move, this threat besps Spivey, who claims Red has shot someone before. Hafeez demands a bracelet from thieves, but Red tells his employer that the opportunity has passed them by; Hafeez cross-insists that he and his cultivations need a bracelet like Lock-no, Hafeez's enforcer, punctuates this by adding that they need him before he opens and crosses out his blade. Reds and thieves instantly pull out their pistols, and Spivey mistakenly pointing him at Red's head. With only Mela Nays ending the dispute by saying to Hafes that she had to handle it, Hafeez quietly remarks that her story would have become a problem. Red tells Hafeza that he doesn't need to worry because thieves know where he's going and that they'll take care of it. Hafeez tells Red and the thieves in a determined tone that he has a different routine for them Mela demands where the bracelet went; Red replies that he is on his way to London. Pushing Red out of his way, Hafeez declares that he and his cultists should go to London, unknown to them Ardeteh Bay is a disguised member of the digging team and listened to everything. A battle at O'Connell's residence O'Connell arrives there at a mansion house in England, with a bracelet, Evelyn deciding a journey to The Lost Oasis of Ahma Sher to find the King of Scorpio using a bracelet as a map. Rick protests against this because he does not want to endanger their lives and begins flirting with Evelyn to change her mind. Unknown to them, Alex, who wears breasts, opens it and wears a bracelet that shows him Carnac's vision. He is unable to remove the bracelet and places a football statue inside his chest and rolls his jacket sleeve down to cover the bracelet. When Rick and Evelyn start kissing, they notice some feminine underwear, and Rick annoyingly realizes that this is one of Jonathan's girlfriends and goes to find him. Meanwhile, Locke-no and a handful of armed cultist thugs arrive at O'Connell's residence and head to the confrontation with Evelyn O'Connell, Hafeez himself, accompanied by Mela, Shafez and two other heads to question Rick O'Connell. Instead, cultists find Jonathan Carnahan with a woman named Sheila, and cultists thus mistake him for O'Connell. Cultists force Sheila to come out and confront Jonathan about the Anubis bracelet, but Jonathan, thinking Hafeez works for a man named Johnny that Jonathan owes, begs more time to pay what he owes. Hafeez claims he doesn't know anyone named Johnny and starts asking about the Anubis bracelet. Jonathan argues honestly that he has no idea what they're talking about, but Hafeez doesn't believe him having Shafez take the dagger and hold Jonathan back. Jonathan then lies, saying he lost his bracelet in the car game, at which point Hafeez's attention distracts when he eyes spearhead Osiris in Jonathan's hand; Jonathan claimed to spearhead years ago when he was picked up from Hamunaptra Bery. Then Mela Nays walks into the room with a basket in her hands, asking where Jonathan's wife is, considering him O'Connell. Jonathan lies that Evelyn went to Baden-Baden or Tibet, but that excuse doesn't register with Mela, who pulls the poisonous Egyptian perch out of the basket and brings him closer to Jonathan to bite him. As Mel steps on with the snake, Jonathan once again lies and stated that the bracelet is in the safe at the bottom, scrolling through his lies and giving a combination; Mela isn't distracted by this, as she moves closer with a pinch in her hand. At that point, Rick walks in, seeing Jonathan being held and tortured with a snake and dagger dagger. O'Connell, thinking it was another of Jonathan's wild parties, asks guests to stop their activities, but stops when Mel rushes her eye at O'Connell. O'Connell catches and throws it back at one of the cultists, and in a mutual motion another cultist throws a dagger at Rick, nearly hitting him, but dodging as soon as O'Connell throws him back, hitting another cultist instead. Another cultist opens fire with a machine gun, but O'Connell and Jonathan flee, with Jonathan pocketing Spear out of the curator's hands. Lock-no finds Evelyn and Alex and asks where the breasts are. Evelyn, angry at the intruder in her house, draws the sword off her wall and demands lock-no leave. Since Evelyn demands lock-no shouldn't go, a few thug come out from behind him, surpassing Evelyn. As Lock-no declares he will kill her and take her anyway, only then will Ardeteh Bay, the lock-no rival steps in to protect Evelyn and Alex. A fight with several cultists was shot down; Lock-no needed a moment to endorse Ardet's duel skills before removing his cloak and joining the fight. Ardet himself almost knocks down Lock-no but is distracted as Evelyn knocks out another cultist. Locke-no overdoes Medjay, lurks him in the shoulder and nearly kills Ardet with a dagger before kidnapping Evelyn. Lock-no doesn't realize the breast contents have been altered by Alex. Imhotep Rick and Jonathan's resurrection is fleeing into the street and seeing Evelyn taken by a cultist, however, they are stopped from the shootout. When Alex and Ardet arrive outside the angry Rick, the year demands what Ardet does and why Evelyn was taken away. Ardet reveals that if they know cult leader Hafeza, they will find Evelyn. Alex recognizes him as curator of the British Museum and the group decides to follow. Ardt then reveals that the cult rediscovered Imhotep's corpse and somehow the women with them they were able to know exactly where Imhotep was buried. Alex then reveals that he is wearing a bracelet, however Ardet then warns him that the bracelet activated will lead to the next apocalypse. Rick tells Ardet to light up and everyone enters the car and races to the museum to save Evelyn. Ardt then reveals that they have seven days to stop King Scorpio from rising, and the cult intends to resurrect Imhotep because he is the only one strong enough to fight the King of Scorpio because of the forces he wields as a result of the Curse of Hom Dai and will gain command of the Anubis Army. Arriving outside the museum Rick and Ardet go out to engage in cult, while Alex and Jonathan stay in the car. Armed with a weapon, Ardt notices the tattoo and realizes that Rick is Medzha's comrade and quotes an old saying that Rick replies to. However, Rick rejects Ardt's statement and the significance of the tattoo. Inside the Lock-no museum, along with other cultist followers, take part in a ritual that will bring Imhotep back to a life made in the vault of the British Museum. The ritual is performed by the museum's curator and cultist leader Baltus Hafeez. Evelyn brought in cult members and awaken to relief in horror that Imhotep's remains are inside a piece of mineral as Hafeez performs an ordinance that will bring Imhotep back to life at the British Museum. The final incitements are read, and Imhotep bursts out of the mineral, roaring furiously as the rotting flesh surrounding his skull creeps to his face, regenerating partially. Imhotep demands to know what a year it is, and informs Hafez that Scorpio's year has come. Hafez and Lock-no use acid-filled eik to open their breasts, expecting to find an Anubis bracelet inside; instead, they find a statue of a baseball player that Alex inadvertently placed on a bracelet. Hafeez asks Lock-no where the bracelet went, and Lock doesn't realize Alex is wearing it. Rick and Ardet's escape hide behind the talk and testify to Imhotep's resurrection and see Mela step into the room. Evelyn has a vision in which Mela appears as Ank-Su-Namun to Imhotep because she has the exact look of her lost love. Mela then explains that she is an ANC-sous-Namun reincarnated, to which Imhotep replies that she is only Ank-Su-Namun in the body, but shortly after she awetells her spirit from the Underworld, she will be her true self and their love will again be whole. Mela offers an Imhotep gift: Evelyn O'Connell is bound with ropes and held on board by several cultists; Mela knows that watching Evelyn's death will please Imhotep, as he immediately recognizes Evelyn. Evelyn is moved closer to a large stone pool filled with fire as Imhotep gives the order to burn it. Evelyn is almost cast when Rick O'Connell jumps in and saves her before she can be harmed. Cultists then began opening fire as O'Connell's firing shots; Ardeteh Bay closes O'Connell out of the staircase, firing shots at both cultists and Imhotep, but the shots don't register at Imhotep because they make holes but do no permanent damage. When Imhotep witnesses fights on both sides, he sees O'Connell and he is shot in the chest by an adventurer. The fight continues until Imhotep reaches toward the cargo dock where the urn containing Imhotep's servants is stored; Imhotep opens the bank, unleashing four mummified soldiers, and gives orders to kill his enemies. Ardet's first trip by bus to O'Connell and Ardeteh Bay escaped with Evelyn, unknown to them Jonathan broke the key to Rick's car and somehow got on the bus to help them escape. The mummies then broke out, although Rick and Ardetu manage to knock each other down, the two manage to get on the bus and Rick and Ardet fight to kill them, Jonathan tries to manoeuvre the bus. Rick fights one mummy; However, his shotgun falls and is taken by Evelyn, who saves Ardet from devouring and Rick punches the mummy and falls down as the top of the bus comes off the crossing under the bridge, destroying the mummy. Recovering, Rick and Evelyn start kissing a lot Alex is disgusted and he goes to the other side of the bus. Locke-no and other cultists then kidnap Alex, taking him into his limousine and driving away and preventing Rick from saving Alex by sharing a bridge. That night Imhotep stands out from the balcony with Mela looking out over London, Hafeez informs Imhotep that his enemies have taken Spear Osiris, whom Imhotep finds little concerning, as he claims his forces will be so great once he reaches Ahma Sher that nothing can stop him. Imhotep then leans in to kiss Mela, and although she loves him, she still shames his appearance; Imhotep then puts Mela in a trance that allows her to see herself in her past life as Ank-Su-Namun. Because Mela is in her trance, she sees Imhotep not as mummy, but as his living I am, whole again, whom she kisses deeply without seeing her kiss the mummy, which rots on when she touches him. While Rick hugs and comforts Evelyn's crying, Ardt urges them not to give up as Alex wears a bracelet. Realising they need to reach Carnac first, Rick decides to access transport so they reach Carnac before the cult does as the wristband will show Alex the next step of the way. Travel to Carnac O'Connell to save Alex accompanied by Evelyn's brother Jonathan and Ardt Bay. Rick's associate from his past adventures, Izzi, a pilot, provides group transportation in exchange for Jonathan's golden spear. The Medjai tribes unite and decide to ate into the Ahm Sher Desert to fight the Anubis Army, guided by Ardet the homelbird Horus, who will act as a messenger for them. After a while, the Imhotep and its cultists headed to Cairo by train. Imhotep remains in a box decorated with ancient Egyptian artifacts and antiquities. As the cultists travel on, Alexa moves out to Imhotep because Mummy wants to talk to Alex. To hide his rotten appearance, Imhotep gives long black robes and a detailed dark mask. Speaking to Alex the ancient Egyptian, knowing that an Anubis bracelet, Alex, wearing it back in London, will provide him with knowledge of the ancient Egyptians, in particular their language. Imhotep explains that Alex is the chosen one and that Alex will guide his way to Ahma Sher. Alex, a little scared, tries to challenge Imhotep, saying he can lose them all, to which Imhotep praises Alex for having the power of his father, and remarks to Alex that he still knows what Alex doesn't do: an Anubis bracelet is both a gift and a curse, and Alex explains that he already knows about the properties of the bracelet : from the moment he was , the fact that the Ofha has seven days to reach Ahkma Sher before The King of Scorpio wakes up. However, Imhotep warns that if he does not enter the temple before sunrise on the seventh day, he will die as the bracelet sucks out of his life. Alex tries to act defiantly once more, remarking that his father will defeat Imhotep, it's in the earthy phrase push your arse, but Imhotep removes the mask on which his rotting face is visible, declaring his disbelief. Imhotep then waits in his cell as three thieves Red, Jacques and Spivey bring in: the same three thieves who were employed by cultists for demanding more money. They took with them breasts that once contained the Book of the Dead and five sacred cans with a canopy. Imhotep hides somewhere in the room and catches three thieves by surprise, leaping forward and roaring. Three thieves, horrified at the sight of that deceased man, shout and fire their mummy from their weapons, which does not affect Imhotep, who just stands there laughing. As Spivey heads back to the door, Mela Nays appears through the spy pit, telling him to open the breasts they brought because mummy wants his breasts open and he tears off the lid. Jacques, who knows about the properties of his breasts, shouts against him. His chest opens and, as the dust clears, the mummy is gone, he then appears in Spivey and comes down from the ceiling and grabs him by the shoulders and kills the screaming man, who sucks out his organs, fluids and flesh, leaving the thief with a skeletal hulk. The other two, distraught at what happened, start a fire on the mummy in revenge but are also killed. The thief's bodies litter the floor of the carriage while Imhotep stands completely regenerated as Mela approaches him, bowing in front of him before sharing a kiss. Soon the train stops at Carnac and Imhotep looks outside the window, seeing Alex trying to escape the train and being targeted by two cultists with machine guns. Imhotep uses his strength to lift the two men into the air, banging against each other and throwing them on a pair of stone pillars. When Alex runs, the following place appears to him: the temple island of Philae, but the vision is interrupted when Imhotep steps in to use his powers to lift Alex into the air, suspending him from moving, and jokingly waving his finger at him in no way. The ancient rivalry Imhotep later spends time with Mela, who sits next to him in front of a sacred pool of water in ruins. Imhotep tells Mela that it is time to restore who she really is and puts Mela in a trance that brings her back to a previous life like Ank-Su-Namun, trans also affects Evelyn O'Connell, who is in conducting tracking cultivators, and so both women enter a trance that shows them their past lives. It is clear that Evelyn is the reincarnation of Seth I daughter Nefertiri, and that she and Amuck Sun-Namun were ancient rivals. It also emerged that Seth entrusted Nefertiri with the task of watching the ancient Anubis bracelet, king of Scorpio's final artifact. As the vision continues, it emerged that one day, for the amusement of Seth and his confidantes, Nefertiri and Ank-Su-Namun duel in the royal court with Sais, but Move to another weapon before Nefertiri is eventually brought to the heels of Ank-Su-Namuna. It was after the battle ended in her defeat that Sethi made a statement to her trial: Ank-Su-Namun will be his future wife as he believes she can protect him from any consernation, while Nefertiri will be charged with protecting the bracelet. Nefertiri is obviously disappointed that Ankh-Su-Namun will become her stepmother, but she voices no disapproval, most likely knowing it will be down to nothing. Instead, she hugs her father and takes note that Imhotep exchanges hidden glances with Ank-Su-Namuna. That evening, Nefertiri opens to the balcony of his room in the palace to take the night air. As she stands there, she sees an Ank-Su-Namuna kiss, Imhotep. Seth enters the camera and Nefertiri watches Imhotep remove his sword from his waistband. Aware of her intentions, Nefertiri urges Medjay, Seth's loyal bodyguards, that her father is in danger. Unfortunately, it's too late and the princess watches with horror as Ank-Su-Namun strikes her father first, striking him deeply in the back with a dagger before joining Imhotep in stabbing the monarch repeatedly until he dies. Overcome with horror, Nefertiri inadvertently leans too far over the edge of the balcony and falls to her death. Evelyn, who is reviving this moment, almost jumps the conduct before Rick catches her. After discovering her visions of Ardet, he theorizes that Rick is a reincarnated Medjay designed to protect Evelyn, and that Alex is the key to finding Akhm Sher. Therefore, three are three sides of the pyramid. While disbelieving this, Rick acknowledges that there may be some truth in what Ardet says. Meanwhile, At Carnac, Mela restores the moment that made her life end: Sethi's murder, and her suicide in front of Pharaoh's royal bodyguards: Mela unknowingly re-injects her suicide and strikes herself in the stomach with a dagger, as she died a century ago. As Mela falls, the Imhotep reads poems from the Book of the Dead that return an Ank-Su-Namuna's soul to Mela's body, and both lovers recognize each other, share a passionate kiss. O'Connell later arrived at Carnac and discovered that Alex had left clues to follow at each location so they could trace the cult. The airships reach the canyon, and they see imhotep's tipsy wave with river waters chasing conducting. Izzy sees the tidal wave coming forward and lights up the engines full of throttle to avoid flooding and the tidal wave is averted. As the plane and its passengers continue through the canyon, Jonathan looks and sees the destination: the lost Oasis of Ahma Sher. As the band looks at Oasis, the grumbling sound rings, and the tidal wave returns. Izzi, Egan enters the engines with a full blast to avoid water, but the engines overheat and accelerators on the ship remains stationary in the air, Izzy gently plunges into the cockpit and a tidal wave takes the vessel and its passengers down. O'Connell's accident in Aholm Sher and Alexi remains grief-stricken at the seeming loss of their father, while Imhotep triumphantly steps in. Izzi is left with airships in the hope of repairing him before O'Connell and his friends leave. Jonathan pocketing the golden spear given to Izzi. While Horus flies out to deliver another message, he is whipped up by a brutal Locke who hasn't watched the birds travel. Ardet is heartbroken by the death of his friend and intends to leave so he can warn Medjay about the army. However, Rick pleads for his help and Ardet agrees out of allegiance. O'Connell prepares his weapon, while Rick and Ardet go to rescue Alex, while Jonathan and Evelyn provide cover for the fire. The cult is attacked by a group of mummified pygmies who are ordained to kill any people they can catch. Ardeth duels and kills Locke no, who tries to get a bracelet from Alex as it is the key to awakening the Anubis Army. Pygmies attack and kill all cult members, but fail to capture the leader of the cultist Baltus Hafeez, who abandons his two remaining men to die while he runs; Pygmies jump on people and hit them with daggers and spears, killing both of them. Continuing their pursuit, they swing through the trees and almost catch Rick O'Connell and his son Alex, but before attacking them, he is smooched by a gun in Rick's hands. Pygmies, however, outnustrne O'Connell and his family as they pursue them through an oasis, dividing Jonathan Carnahan. The Pygmies continue to pursue the O'Connell family and reach the fallen decks the group crosses like a bridge. Jonathan quickly catches up while Risk takes precaution, throwing a lit stick of dynamite at the cannibals they catch and fight before it explodes, tearing a fallen log in two and throwing pygmies down into the canyon. Alex then reveals the bracelet will kill him if he doesn't reach the pyramid and Evelyn sees the sunrise, so Rick grabs Alex and runs to the pyramid to save his son. Waking up, Scorpion King Rick and Alex run to the pyramid, barely making it to sunrise. The bracelet will separate from Alex's hand, however, Hafeez finds and wears it. Ardet goes and regroups with Medjay in case the Anubis army rises. Evelyn and Jonathan arrive at the pyramid and see that Rick and Alex have done so. When Evelyn is caught by surprise, Ank-Su-Namun snuggles up to her and punches Evelyn in the stomach with a dagger, killing her. Jonathan tries to help Evelyn by stopping Ank-Su-Namuna but is quickly restrained as Imhotep lifts him by the throat and throws aside. Ank-sous-Namun walks into the pyramid with Imhotep and sardonically waves hello to Alex as she holds the Book Dead. Rick is in a hurry to help Evelyn, however, it is too late and she succumbs to her wounds, the devastation of her family. While walking through the pyramid, Imhotep descends on a platform surrounded by two large statues, both of which deprive him of immortality, taking away from him strength. Imhotep argues that Anubis assumed his authority, wanting him to face king of Scorpio as mortal. However, Imhotep is first in his decision to fight the King of Scorpio all the same. Ank-Su-Namun pleads with him not to go; Imhotep insists he can win the fight without his powers, reminding Ank-Su-Namun that if he dies, she must return it with the Book of the Dead; Ank-Su-Namun forbids this, saying she cannot bear the heartache of losing it again. He kisses her as a distraction and then proceeds to face King Scorpio as Ank-Su-Namun screams after him in despair. Heartbroken Rick hugs his son and leaves him outside while he steps into the pyramid to avenge Evelyn's death. Hafeez enters the room inside the pyramid and places his hand, dressed in a bracelet, into a giant statue of a scorpion that regenerates the pyramid and awakens the Anubis army. Rick's final battle finds Hafeez trying to take his hand off the statue and claims imhotep is a dead man. However, while trying to remove his hand, Hafeez screams in pain as his hand is stripped of the flesh. The year goes by and eventually finds Imhotep trying to summon The King of Scorpio and they fight. Majai waits for the army to arrive and see a shadow that causes sand to become an ash-like, tar-shaped substance, regenerating Anubis army soldiers who have slowly connected from the ashes and turn into jackal-headed humanoid mummies; The army involves Medzhai in battle. However, the Anubis warriors are easily killed by decapitation and soon stabbed despite inflicting heavy casualties on Medjai. Ardt notices the strange ease of their victory, and is heard crashing from ahead of him running to the top of the dune with his men to see a mammoth, endless army of Anubis warriors stretching into the distance; the force they had just defeated was only an avant-garde, and now the main army is demolishing them, too huge for the remaining medjay to have any hope of defeat. While Jonathan comforts Alex over Evelyn's death, Alex realizes that the Book of the Dead can resurrect her, and they collaborate to steal the Book of the Dead from Ank-sous-Namuna. They find Ank-Su-Namun and Jonathan decides to fist fight Ank-Su-Namun to teach her a lesson: Jonathan actually distracts Ank-Su-Namuna from watching The Book of the Dead and her key, which she left behind as she fights Jonathan, punching him hard. During the two fights, Ank-Su-Namun takes a pair of twin blades from a nearby statue and uses them in his fight, slopping Jonathan in the chest, and nearly killing him before he can shake it. Alex asks Jonathan about the ultimate stork symbol he can't Jonathan remembers the stork symbol as Amennof and Alex finish the final spell needed to resurrect Evelyn. Ank-Su-Namun is about to kill Jonathan when Evelyn, who has just been culling Alex, intervenes to shake her off before sending Jonathan and Alex to find Rick. Evelyn and Ank-Su-Namun fight as they were centuries ago, and Evelyn beats and defeats Ank-Su-namun with fighting skills acquired in her current life as well as from her past life. King Scorpio interrupts the battle of Rick and Imhotep and, as it turned out, became the half-man half of the monster Scorpio. Imhotep tells King Scorpio that he is king of Scorpio's slave, but Rick is sent to kill him so that the king focuses on killing Hafeza, who walks into the cell. King Rick's death While escaping from King Scorpio sees some carvings on the wall that reveals Jonathan's stick is a weapon that can stretch out to become a spearhead and kill King Scorpion. Realizing this Rick finally begins to believe in his destiny to be a warrior. Alex and Jonathan go to the rescue of Rick, who tells them that Jonathan needs to activate the spear before he resumes running from the King of Scorpio. After activating the spear, Jonathan intends to throw it at the King of Scorpio, but when he tries, Imhotep catches him and throws a spear at the King of Scorpio himself. Instead, Rick catches a spear before he can pierce King Scorpion and runs through it, ordered him to take the Anubis army back into the underworld with him, who saves Medjay from certain death, the death of King Scorpio forces Anubis to turn the oasis back into the desert, and the oasis is sucked into a pyramid. Rick and Imhotep hang from the edge of the pit that leads into the Underworld. Evelyn risks her life to save Rick despite his plea for her to leave, but Ank-sous-namun refuses to save Imhotep. Seeing Ank-Su-namun leave him, Imhotep willingly leaves. Ank-sous-namun later falls into a scorpion-filled pit and dies. O'Connell will reach the top of the pyramid, which is sucked into the desert. Izzi arrives with a modified airship and saves O'Connell. Jonathan grabs a diamond at the top of the pyramid. Ardet Bay greets them as they fly over him, Rick and Evelyn, who have experienced events happy to be together again and kiss in joy, much to Alex and Jonathan's disgust. The adventure ends with Izzi and Jonathan comically arguing over the diamond that Jonathan took. The cast of Trivia Is a snapshot in the film where, in London, Tower Bridge and the dome of St Paul's church and Big Ben is all splayed into one frame. It is geographically anachronistic to the true places of the city's attractions. The film was released on DVD on October 2, 2001. The soundtrack was released on May 1, 2001. One of the big mistakes in this film is the date compared to Alex's age. The film puts Alex's age at about 8 years old and takes place in 1933. the previous film took place mainly in 1926. This means that if O'Connell had immediately married and would have been immediately born Alex in late 1926, or some day in 1927, making him 6 years old or maybe 7 years old. In addition, while on the train, one of the thieves claims that the breasts associated with the curse of Hom Dai were last discovered nine years ago; Since the last film took place in 1926, it should house the film in 1935, thus plausibly making Alex eight years old. The film, held in 1933, was probably a production error. Performances All performances are considered the first performances. The appearance of the characters can be found in the section Cast.
